Resolved that the executive committee meet the committees of the other clubs to arrange for a uniform. That Mondays and Wednesdays be practice nights. That the committee select the grounds and that the secretary look after the ball.

Winnipeg Daily Tribune, April 15.

Frank Mariaggi, the restaurateur, has returned home, after spending a couple of months at Banff for his health. He disposed of $30,000 worth of land in the Edmonton district. Mr. Mariaggi is contemplating the erection of one of the finest restaurants in the city.

LOCAL.

—The ice is breaking up on the river.

—The Alberta Land Co. are installing a safe in their office to-day.

—Miss Marion Lockhart has taken a position in H. W. B. Douglas' new bookstore.

—There will be a meeting of the library and reading room committee tomorrow night at 8.30.

—Albert Jones, of Strathcona, is in a very critical condition to-day. His ailment is pneumonia.

—A. E. Voyer, is about to erect a residence on the west side of Sixth street, north of Victoria avenue, H. B. reserve.

—A. W. Ormsby has removed his stock of electric lamps and shades from Bossange's old stand to W. H. B. Douglas' new book store.

—The lacrosse players will meet on the old Hudson's Bay grounds to-morrow evening. A business meeting will be held after the game.

—The town council have ordered excavations to be dug in order to ascertain the depth of frost penetration. Saturday's investigation on Fraser avenue showed 5 feet 5 inches of frozen earth. Other holes are being put down to-day.

—Free Press, April 17.—The Alexandra block has now been completely let. The entire ground floor was rented yesterday to Mr. F. Mariaggi, who will open up at once an up-to-date restaurant, making it as complete in every detail as he possibly can.

—Baptiste and Joseph Rabasca, the two men who have been missing for ten days, have not been traced by the police. It appears they left their home on the north side of the Saskatchewan intending to cross over to Calder's house on the south side, they certainly never reached there. As the ice, at that time, was already full of holes, it is feared that they went through and are drowned. Constable Dean, who has been working on the case for some days, has fears the men are lost.

—A meeting was held, on the evening of Wednesday, the 16th inst., in the office of McDougall & Secord, for the purpose of organizing a baseball association. Mr. Rae in the chair. A motion was carried that the association be named the Edmonton Base Ball Association. The following officers were appointed, viz.: Hon. Pres., E. Raymer; president, J. Mills; manager, J. C. Hovey; sec-treas., J. C. McDougall; captain, Mr. Rae; committee, Dr. T. H. Burke, Mr. Brooks. Membership fee $1. Practice nights Mondays and Wednesdays.

—Calgary Herald, April 16th.—John Lineham, of the Kootenay lakes oil company, is at the Alberta to-day. Mr. Lineham states that the shaft his company sunk has reached 750 feet, and there is no mistaking it. As the ice, at that time, was already full of holes, it is feared that they went through and are drowned. Constable Dean, who has been working on the case for some days, has fears the men are lost.

—Wm. Lillie, partner of Hiram Albert, was brought in from Beaver Lake on Saturday, by Geo. Woods and W. Vanbusckirk. Lillie, whose mind has been unbalanced for some time, went to Banff in January, he commenced to act very strangely soon after his return. Recently he endeavored to commit suicide by jumping in the creek. His neighbors thought it best to bring him in on arrival here he was cared for, and on arrival here he was cared for, and on arrival here he was cared for.

—The weather on Saturday morning appeared to be very unsettled. A drizzling rain which started about 10.30 soon turned to snow. A light fall continued for an hour or so, but towards evening a thaw set in making the streets in a very muddy condition. On Sunday morning there was another light fall of rain, the day throughout being generally cloudy. As there is already a large quantity of wheat in the ground this moisture is a blessing to those farmers who have taken time by the forelock. Though the spring is by no means early the green grass is sprouting rapidly, a few warm days will make fair cropping for the stock.

—In the House of Commons on Monday last replying to Mr. Walter Scott, Western Assiniboia. Mr. Sifton said that the number of acres of land, patented to railway companies other than the C. P. R. and Calgary and Edmonton companies, was 2,027,128. The land remaining unpatented and earned by the different companies is as follows: Alberta Railway Coal Co., 11,374; Calgary and Edmonton Railway, 479,043; Canadian Northern, 1,567,920; C. P. R., 8,742,413; C. P. R. Pipestone branch, 200,320; C. P. R. Souris branch, 318,720; Manitoba S. W. Coal Ry., 1,221,225; Q. T. T. and S. R. and S. Co., 1,004,431; Saskatchewan and Western railway, 98,880. Total earned and unpatented, 15,959,406. The government is urging on this work as rapidly as —Ottawa, April 15.—R. F. Douglas, Toronto, is to be appointed an inspector in the Mounted Police. He will take the place of inspector Scarth, who is now in South Africa.

—The property owners and residents of 4th street, H. B. reserve feel that the erection of the water tower, on that street, will be a detriment. They are notifying the council of their objections hoping that the structure may be erected elsewhere.

—The Edmonton Telephone Co. will extend the line to Leduc. The poles are already on the ground and the contract for the work is let. Operations will commence as soon as the frost is out of the ground. Other extensions are contemplated.

—W. H. B. Douglas is opening up his stock of stationery, fancy goods and musical instruments. Owing to the large quantity of sundries to store away Mr. Douglas states he will not be prepared to serve his patrons until the end of the week.

—Ponoka Herald, April 18.—Thos. Laviole, mine host of the Royal, went to Edmonton on Saturday, where on Monday morning he was united in marriage to Miss Rose Compo. He arrived here with his bride the same day and the happy couple are now at home at the Royal. On behalf of Ponoka we wish them a long life of happiness and success in our village.

THE FOURTH CONTINGENT.

Authority for the enlistment of two thousand more men for service in South Africa has been issued. When this enrollment has been completed Canada's total contribution towards the South African war will amount to six thousand men. When the war opened and the first contingent was enlisted some particularly enthusiastic imperialists declared that Canada could send five thousand men instead of one thousand if required. They were thought to be talking wild, and yet the number which they fixed as the limit of Canada's probable contributions has already been passed. The moral is that Canada is a much bigger country than many Canadians think it is; that imperialism has a stronger hold in the country than many people think it has; and that the military spirit is stronger amongst our people than was ever supposed. Why should Canada not send six thousand or ten thousand men to fight the battles of the empire? We are over five millions of people; we are charged with the control of a country of vast extent and unlimited resources whose development we hope to achieve according to the precedent that has been set by the industrial, commercial and social achievements of the empire of which we form a part. We hope to make this country great in industry and commerce but still more so in upholding and advancing the light and liberty in which the British empire leads the world. Our resources and possibilities are in themselves weak and not strength. They are merely a temptation to other nations, and are to that extent a danger to our political and social institutions and aspirations. It is an invariable rule of life with individuals, communities, or nations that those who have, if they would keep, must be prepared to hold. In other words, if we have what is worth our having it is worth somebody else's having, and in order that we may keep it we must be prepared to resist force by force. We in Canada have heard the doctrines preached that military necessity did not exist for us; that reposing under the shadow of the far-spreading and all-powerful empire of Britain, Canada was secure under all circumstances, and that military effort on her part was a waste of resources. There may have been a time when this was approximately true but that time is not now. With the growth of military establishments on the part of the great civilized nations and the consequently corresponding growth of the spirit of military aggression, the British empire is only great if it is strong. Unless its greatness in area, population and wealth is backed by proportionate military force its condition is the same as that of Canada itself. Its greatness is its weakness for it is a temptation to attack. If the empire, and the liberty, civilization and social order which are enjoyed under that empire and as a result of its existence and prestige, are to be maintained, in the present condition of the world, they can only be maintained by force of arms. Canada with a comparatively small population scattered over a vast territory, is and has always been the weak spot of the empire. The time has come when this fact should be recognized and when Canada should do her part to strengthen the empire by strengthening herself as a military force.

Admitting all this it may be asked how is Canada being strengthened by sending six thousand of her sons to risk life and limb so many thousands of miles away in South Africa? The answer is, First, that the empire cannot lose in one part and expect to win in another. That to lose in South Africa would mean the weakening of the whole fabric of the empire. Canada can better afford to help to maintain British prestige in South Africa than to permit that prestige to be lowered by lack of success there. As long as Canada is a part of the empire the success of the empire in any part of the world is to the advantage of Canada. Second, because war is a trade which can only be learned by actual experience. To have six thousand Canadians take part in actual warfare in South Africa gives our country a better knowledge of the actual conditions of modern warfare than attendance of the total male population at military schools. Every man who has been in South Africa knows more of war than he could learn in a lifetime in a military college. The knowledge obtained abroad will always be available at home in case the need arises. Looking at the matter from this standpoint, Canada cannot spend money on the military education of her citizens to better advantage than by having such proportion of them as can be spared from their ordinary avocations taken an active part in the war now going on.

As to the loss of life and disablement which must occur, these are a part of war. If by any course that we could take we were able to prevent the necessity ever arising of our being compelled to face a condition of war, then it would be a mistake and a wrong that any of our people should be asked to risk life or limb, as men who enlist for active service do. But unfortunately we have not the say as to whether we shall ever be called upon to face a condition of war or not. That rests not with us but with those who for the time are our enemies. Until the time shall come that a higher than earthly power issues the order for war to cease it is necessary for the nations of the earth to be prepared for war, and in no other way can men or nations be so well prepared as by facing its stern, its terrible, realities.

NORTHERN ONTARIO.

Bulletin Ottawa Correspondence.

Ever since parliament opened the members have been flooded with maps, pamphlets and circulars relating to the agricultural resources of Northern Ontario. Whoever is taking an interest in booming the district is certainly working energetically and in a way with good judgment. Clearly the effort is to direct the overflow population of the province into its own vacant northern territory. Nothing could be more commendable if the territory in question were desirable for suitable for agricultural settlement or offered the best opportunity available for such settlement; but it does seem that under actual circumstances the enthusiasm of the Northern Ontario boomers is being misdirected from all points of view. Even if Northern Ontario were a far better agricultural region than it is, the fact that on the western prairies there is a still better agricultural region is a sufficient reason why the overflow population of Ontario should choose the best rather than the second best. It is better for the people themselves who desire to live by farming that they should farm where their efforts will bring the greatest returns, and it is just as much better for those who deal with the farmers in articles of commerce or manufacture that the farmers should be doing the best that can be done rather than the next best; that they should have a hundred dollars to spend as a result of their efforts than that they should have only fifty. The commerce and manufactures of Ontario depend for their increase on the increased market, which the growth of population and prosperity in our country provides. Where the greatest measure of prosperity and progress can be secured is the part to which the efforts of the surplus population should be directed. If the settler in the Northwest at the end of three years can begin to produce five thousand bushels of wheat a year while the settler in Northern Ontario cannot at the end of twenty years begin to put that amount of produce on the market, certainly it is better for all business interests of the country that he should be in the Northwest rather than in Northern Ontario. The mere existence of a man or of a family does not increase the wealth of the country; the value of the presence of the man or family depends on the amount which they contribute to the trade of the country by their labor. To settle people where their efforts are practically useless beyond the getting of a mere livelihood, instead of settling them where they can produce largely and so add largely to the trade and wealth of the country, is a mistake of the grossest kind.

This is said, admitting Northern Ontario to be all that its boomers claim for it; but, whatever may be the case beyond the height of land in the basin of Hudson's Bay, there is no question that as far as the country bordering on the Great Lakes or lying along the line of the C. P. R. is concerned it is not at all what is claimed for it agriculturally. The amount of land upon which agriculture is possible is infinitesimal and its quality altogether inferior. The formation of the country is granite and wherever that formation prevails the soil is necessarily poor. On a limestone formation the soil of the Ottawa is limestone and produces crop far beyond its appearance, but the upper Ottawa and all the country bordering on the Great Lakes is granite. The soil, if it can be called, is poor and hungry, and will never make farms in the proper sense of the word. In speaking of settlement in this country it should be remembered that there must be area in order to give value. A hundred-acre farm of the very best of soil in the middle of a stretch of granite is of no practical value, whereas in three or four townships adjoining land not nearly so good, each hundred-acre farm would be worth money. There must be a body of production together in order to make a market and secure transport and upon the market and transport the success of farming as a business depends. The effort to induce people to go into the country at present accessible in Northern Ontario to make a living by farming is a cruel wrong and is against the best interests of Canada as well as of the province of Ontario and of the people themselves. There is scarcely any country in the world but has a value, at every country is not valuable for the same reason. The settled districts of Ontario depend on their agricultural resources for their value; and consequently it is the natural tendency in Ontario to measure the value of every country by the agricultural standard. If the country is not good for farming the settlers feel that it is not good for anything, therefore they feel bound to boom the farming capabilities of Northern Ontario irrespective of fact, while practically ignoring the vast and practically unlimited resources of minerals, water and timber.

The interest which we in the west have in this Northern Ontario boom is that it shows a belief on the part of Ontario men themselves that although that province has contributed hundreds of thousands of people to the United States it still has an overflow of population which it is worth trying to secure in order to build up a country. If it is desirable on the part of the Northern Ontario boomers to secure Ontario farmers for settlements in that country, if there is sufficient promise of success to warrant the effort now being put forth, there is good ground for believing that similar efforts put forth on behalf of settlement in the Northwest would be more than equally rewarded. It is a strange immigration policy which brings people from the heart of Europe and of the United States to settle on the western prairies while the people of Canada, whose taxes purchased and developed the Northwest, drift thousands to the United States or are lost in the woods of Northern Ontario. No wonder the progress of Canada has been slow under such a misdirection of the greatest of our resources, that is the energy, industry and presence of our people.

TREATY NUMBER EIGHT.

H. A. Conroy, inspector of treaty 8, arrived from Ottawa on Friday evening accompanied by Dr. J. Hislop, medical officer, and Hugh Richardson, of the Indian department, Winnipeg. The party are en route for the northern treaty payments and will leave Edmonton the latter part of next week. Mr. Conroy is now occupied in making preparations for the journey.

The route from Edmonton will be by way of Lake St. Anne and Sturgeon Lake, thence to Dunvegan, on the Peace, from that place the overland journey will be continued by the southern trail to Fort St. John, where the first payments will be made. The date as appointed by the department being May 30th.

From Fort St. John the expedition will take the river going down stream to Dunvegan, Peace River Landing, Fort Vermilion, and Little Red River, making payments to treaty Indians at each of these places. Fort Chipewyan will then be visited and the two bands of Indians here be dealt with.

A stormy and oftentimes troublesome journey across to the east end of Athabasca Lake will enable the Chipewyans of Fond du Lac to receive their annuity for the current year. Recrossing the lake to Fort Chipewyan the inspector and staff will proceed to Fort Smith on the Great Slave river to make the usual payments to the Chipewyans and Ojibwas and of course listen to complaints and hear of the many wants necessary to the happy existence of these wards of the government. Fort Resolution on Great Slave Lake must also be visited as well as the little band located at the mouth of the Hay river, as the several bands who congregate at these trading centres are participants in the annual bounty given as part acknowledgment of the surrender of their right and of their allegiance to the British crown.

Returning to Fort Chipewyan the journey home will be via the Athabasca river to Fort McMurray, where the last business will be transacted. Many a weary and toll-me day must be put in, particularly mounting the 90 miles of rapids between McMurray and the Grand Rapids, beyond which there is still a distance of some 170 miles to the Athabasca Landing. Summer will have come and gone, yes! and even empires perhaps changed, before the travellers will again be welcomed by their Edmonton friends.

STRATHCONA

On Friday evening a public debate under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Union of Strathcona was held in Ross' Hall. The subject debated was "Resolved that, in the interests of good citizenship, Territorial government control of the liquor traffic (based on the Gothenburg system), would be more effective than a Territorial prohibitory law." The affirmative was upheld by Messrs. N. D. Mills and F. W. Kerr, and the negative by Messrs. J. Hamilton McDonald and W. B. Doyle. Both sides contended vigorously for the supremacy which the judges, Rev. Mr. Webb, D. S. MacKenzie and A. C. Rutherford, awarded the affirmative.

The hall was crowded. Rev. Mr. Fleming occupied the chair. The intervals between the speaking were aptly filled with songs by Mr. Davies and Mrs. Colquhoun and instrumental selections by Mrs. Peterson and Miss Fanny Martin.

A. H. Furman, of Southern Alberta, will carry on the stable business of T. Malette, who has left for British Columbia.

Henry Patterson has received the appointment of constable left vacant by the resignation of Albert S. Jones.

The German-Lutherans are erecting a new church at the corner of Grandin street and Anderson avenue. Lord Strathcona has again remembered the town, this time the Methodist church receiving the wad.

The register at the immigration hall shows a large number of new arrivals during the past few weeks.

The agricultural society has decided to hold its annual fair on August 7th and 8th.

The engine and boiler for the Vogel Meat and Packing Co., has arrived. Arrangements are being made for the celebrations of Victoria day.

Jackson Bros. are installing a new lathe of large dimensions.

The Royal Hotel is receiving a tasty coat of paint.

LOCAL

"Shot," the Athabasca river pilot, arrived in town on Saturday evening. He is making arrangements for his boats, leaving the Athabasca Landing, carrying freight for the north. Owing to the low stage of water, there is little hope of leaving the Landing before the 19th of May.

BELMONT.

Rev. T. C. Carson, late of Avon, N. Y., will give his very interesting lecture on the "Mammock Cave of Kentucky" in the school house here, on April 23rd. The lecture will be illustrated by a large chart of the cave. No admission will be charged, but a generous collection is asked in aid of the connexional funds of the Methodist church.

The Methodist church and the community have lost a very esteemed member in the person of Isaac Harvey, whose death was announced last issue. During a short residence of a little over a year, Mr. Harvey showed himself a man of resolution and fearless Christian character and was deservedly loved and esteemed by all. He was bible class teacher in our Sunday school, an official member of the quarterly board, of the Methodist church, acting in the capacity of steward for Belmont. His death is greatly regretted. The funeral services were held at his late residence, Rev. Mr. Thacker conducted the service assisted by Rev. P. C. Buchanan, chairman of Edmonton district, and Rev. Mr. Potter (Presbyterian). The whole settlement is one in extending to Mrs. Harvey their sympathy in her bereavement. The body will be interred at Exeter, Ont., April 19.

NAMAO.

Ducks are here but the ardent sportsman more frequently gets his feet wet than he secures a duck. Seeding operations will be general next week.

Rev. Mr. Thacker is preaching a series of sermons to young men at Bethel church which are being followed with much interest. He has already preached on "The Young Man Wanted," and "The Young Man and Liberty," next Sunday the subject is "The Young Man and Social Life."

The Peace Conference.

"Sparring for time," best describes the present status of negotiations, neither side being willing to risk a decision which would break off the present conference. An agreement may be reached at any moment, but this is more likely to be the result of semi-independent action by Lord Milner and Lord Kitchener at Pretoria than the rather involved conditional decisions of the cabinet at London. The broad lines of Great Britain's terms are now known to the government representatives at Pretoria. Upon these representatives the cabinet is apparently shifting the responsibility of taking advantage of all opportunities, provided no cardinal principles be sacrificed.

The government has ordered that the cable and telegraph lines between London and Pretoria be kept clear. Upon the most prompt transmission of Lord Kitchener's messages. There is good reason to believe that the Boers are vigorously demanding a representative government and that this demand is opposed with equal vigor by the British representatives. It is understood that the Boers strongly object to the long delay proposed by Great Britain before a representative government be granted the former republic and that they also insist that the number of Boer seats in the council be specified.

King Edward Gratified with Canada's Loyalty.

London, April 15.—The King gave a most cordial reception to Lord Strathcona yesterday at Buckingham Palace, when the latter presented the Montreal address and a gold medal commemorating the Royal visit, and said he was highly gratified with the splendid practical loyalty of the Canadians, and much touched with the character of the reception tendered his son and daughter-in-law.
